

What is Women In Progress?

Women In Progress is a natural partner for women in their career and for companies who want to work for greater gender equality. We offer professional development - customized and tailored to the individual's or organization's needs.

We have extensive experience working with women and for proactive companies that see a competitive advantage in the promotion of all employees' skills. By improving visibility, development and exploitation of women's skills Women In Progress contributes to a stronger industry and society.

Women In Progress would like all women to want, to dare and to be able to take command over their career and their leadership. That is why we offer support, training and development before each challenge in a woman's career. For companies we tailor customized solutions.

Women in Progress' work is based on humanistic values. We see each woman as unique, but also as a person who shares a common experience by being a woman. Therefore many of our services are built on learning through networking. By exchanging experiences we know that development happens and new insights are gained. Your self-esteem is strengthened, you will find your strengths and use your skills in a new way. This will benefit both you and your organization.

Women In Progress offers the following services:

- Coaching Mentoring: Individual Programs in the areas of career coaching, executive coaching and business coaching. Women In Progress works with certified professional coaching mentors who have experience from different industries and areas of work.
- Organized Networks: A training based on learning and exchange of experiences on common issues such as management, board work, career opportunities. The networks of maximum eight participants are led by a professional facilitator
- Development Program on Board Work: Courses on two levels, networking as well as marketing of women's competence are offered in order to get more women on boards.
